

Claims: I claim

1. A system with means of providing a small amount of pedaling force needed to propel a rider on a bicycle utilizing said system, which is composed of two fulcrum and lever machines with means to interact with each other in a reciprocal swinging motion.